

FRANK HEARING DATE SET.

Atlanta Ga., Oct. 5.—The Georgia Supreme Court has designated Oct. 25 for the presentation of arguments on the motion whereby Leo M. Frank seeks to have set aside the verdict pronouncing him guilty of the murder of Mary Phagan, April 25, 1913.

Frank is under sentence of death. His motion to set aside the verdict is based on the claim that his constitutional rights were violated when the verdict was returned during his absence from the courtroom. There also is pending in the Supreme Court an extraordinary motion under which Frank seeks a new trial.

HALF OF FRANCE NOW HOSPITAL SAYS DEWEY'S SURGEON

Atrocities on Non-Combatants Beyond Conception, Dr. J. C. Wise Charges.

"Southern France is one great hospital, and Northern France is a battlefield," said Dr. John C. Wise of Washington, who was a passenger aboard the Fabre Line steamship Roma, in to-day from Marseilles. Dr. Wise, who was Dewey's surgeon-general at the battle of Manila Bay, had served for several weeks in French war hospitals at Paris and Bordeaux.

"The atrocities being perpetrated by the Germans on innocent non-combatants in France and Belgium are beyond conception," continued Dr. Wise. "I have seen instances of old men and women knocked on the heads by gun butts and children killed outright."

"Many of the Germans captured by the French prior to the battle of the Marne died mysteriously and with no showing of wounds before they could be removed from the battlefield. Autopsies showed that they had nothing but bruises and roots in their stomachs."

Gaston Gachet, an American citizen of French birth, whose home is at New Bedford, Conn., was returning from volunteer service as an interpreter between the French and English contingents of the allied armies in France.

He said that when he was in Alsace in the last week of August he saw an English brigade operating with the French there.

SAYS HIS WIFE, INSANE, TRIED TO KILL CHILD

Husband Asks Court to Take Girl and Care For Mother.

At the request of Frank Reilly, Justice Ryan in the Brooklyn Children's Court sent Miss Frances E. Leitch, an investigator, to his home, No. 12 State street. Miss Leitch found Mrs. Agnes Reilly and her five-year-old daughter, Agnes, lying on a bed which almost filled one of two small rooms in the basement which the family occupied.

There was no cover or pillows on the bed and the mattress was only a pallet of straw. Every appearance bore out Reilly's declaration that he and his family were almost starving. He said he had been out of work for three months and dared not spend much time searching for a job because his wife had shown tendencies of insanity and he feared she would hurt the little girl if left alone with her.

Early Tuesday morning, he said, the child's cries had aroused him in time to see his wife trying to set fire to the bed. A doctor came from the Kings County Hospital and took the woman there, but she became so violent that she was removed to Kings Park Asylum. Little Agnes was taken to the Children's Society.

ASKS COURT TO ORDER POLICEMEN FROM HOUSE.

Woman Prisoner Says Dwyer's "Oppression" Prevents Her Letting Raided Property.

Inspector John F. Dwyer of the Fourth District appeared in West Side Police Court to-day in answer to a subpoena issued at the request of Carrie Devere, owner of the premises at Nos. 142 and 144 West Fifty-fourth street. The Devere woman recently was fined $250 and sentenced to thirty days for running a disorderly house.

Since that time Inspector Dwyer has kept a police guard in the house. Mrs. Devere wants to rent the property, but is unable to do so as long as uniformed policemen occupy it. She was taken from the Tombs to the Police Court to-day to enable her to present her side of the case to Magistrate McQuade.

The police guard, she said, is costing her $50 a day, and she characterized it as oppression. The inspector admitted he had no idea that the premises would be again utilized for illegal purposes. Magistrate McQuade was in favor of ordering the police guard dismissed, but at the request of an assistant corporation counsel adjourned the case until to-morrow.

Says Husband Here 875 Weekly For Looking Like Lincoln.

Mrs. Hannah Pincus, suing leader Pincus for a divorce in the Supreme Court before Justice Crane, in Brooklyn, to-day asserted in an alimony application that he earned $15 a week by posing as Abraham Lincoln, whose portrait he resembles, in a Coney Island exhibition and vaudeville shows. Pincus said he earned only $25 a week last summer by looking like Lincoln and had now no job or engagements for the future. Justice Crane took the papers.

Victim of Drugs, Violent.

Eighteen-year-old Mildred Doyle, in whose rooms at No. 938 Halsey street, Brooklyn, the police found a collection of drugs and opium layouts, collapsed in her cell at Raymond street jail to-day when she was to have been brought into Special Sessions to be sentenced. She became violent and it took two policemen to get her into an ambulance in which she was taken to the Kings County Hospital. Her case was adjourned until Oct. 8.
